This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

TO THE

LONDON EDITION.

THIS edition of a very portable and useful Concordance is presented to the Public with considerable improvements.

1. It contains several additions and corrections, left by the late pious Compiler, in the margin of a copy of the last edition, which he appears to have carefully looked over, with a view to future republication.

2. The parts of speech are more accurately distinguished than in either of the preceding editions; as, in a multitude of cases, words were left without any notation of this kind.

3. The natural history, as far as it is here inserted, of different beasts, birds, trees, plants, and precious stones, has been greatly corrected and amended, and the fabulous relations, which had been adopted from Mr. Wilson and others, expunged.

4. The definitions of proper names derived from the Hebrew, Greek, Latin, &c., have been compared with the originals, and several hundreds of alterations made, in order to make the name express some property of the primitive word. This was a work of considerable difficulty and perplexity; for, although many names are unimportant as to their significations, yet others are of great consequence, their grammatical meaning being frequently referred to in the sacred text itself, so that the true definition is essentially necessary to a proper understanding of the passage in which such words occur. But, in a Concordance, like this, definitions cannot be greatly extended; care, however, has been taken to make those introduced as accurate as possible; though corrections of this kind might have been carried to a much greater length.

5. In the definitions of some theological terms, a few alterations have been made, which it is hoped will appear to be an improvement. But as several readers may probably think the former definitions best, they are introduced below, in order to obviate all cause of complaint; for, though the alterations made appear to the Editor to be more consistent with the nature and words of God, yet, as many pious and excellent men may be of a contrary mind, such are freely left to their own mode of thinking, and candour requires that the words should be restored to them, by which, on these subjects, they have been accustomed to express their thoughts. A few slight and verbal alterations have been left unnoticed, being of comparatively little importance.

6. In the former editions of this work there were inserted two tables, entitled, A Collection of the Names and Titles given to Jesus Christ; and A Collection of the Appellations given to the Church of God in the Scriptures. These were taken from the large work of Mr. Cruden, of which they never made a valuable part. By the advice of every judicious person, whom the Editor has consulted on the point, these tables have been omitted, as being very exceptionable in almost every point of view, and having scarcely one excellence, by which they can be recommended. In many cases, the unscriptural and injudicious manner, in which these names and appellations have been given to Christ and the church, has had a direct tendency to pervert the judgment of the young and inexperienced, and have contributed not a little to pervert the taste of young ministers. On these accounts, neither the Editor's conscience nor judgment would permit him to insert them as they formerly stood; and it was judged better to omit them entirely, than to alter them.

Great care has been taken to have the references correct according to the last edition, and it is presumed that in the main they are so; but in so many hundred thousand figures, several of which may be easily mistaken for others, it would be unreasonable to expect that no mistakes have been made. It is hoped, however, that it will not be found much inferior to the standard according to which it professes to be formed.

To enter upon a character of the work would be unnecessary. It has been many years before the Public; and they have decided on its merit. It is, without exception, the most useful and valuable work of its kind in a portable size; and he who possesses it will scarcely ever feel the need of having recourse even to Mr. Cruden himself. What the Compiler has done to make it what it is, may be seen in his own very pious Preface, to which the reader is requested to refer.

DEFINITIONS OF CERTAIN WORDS,

AS THEY STOOD IN THE FORMER EDITIONS, WHICH HAVE BEEN ALTERED IN THE PRESENT.

THOSE PARTS ONLY ARE HERE INSERTED, IN WHICH THE ALTERATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE.

Under the word CONVERSION, Regeneration is the infusion of grace in the soul; conversion is the exercise of grace. Draw me, I will run. Song i. 4. Converts are new creatures, (2 Cor. v. 17,) being formed in the image of Christ, (Rom. viii. 29,) and made holy in part here, and shall have a perfection of it after death. 1 John iii. 2; Rev. xxi. 27.

Under the word COVENANT, (V.) The covenant of redemption, and salvation grace, entered into by the sacred Three, in behalf of elect sinners; on whom grace and glory was settled for ever in Christ, their covenant Head. Psal. lxxxix. 3, 28; Eph. i. 3, 4; 2 Tim. i. 9. This covenant is, [1.] A fruit of the sovereign love and good will of God. John iii. 16; Col. i. 19. [2.] It is everlasting. Isa. lxi. 8. [3.] Sure. Isa. lv. 3. [4.] Absolute. Jer. xxxii. 38, 40. [5.] Called new, not in respect of its date, it being made from everlasting, but in its discovery and manifestation. Heb. viii. 8. [6.] It is a covenant replete with a fulness of all spiritual blessings. Eph. i. 3.

ELECT, s. or Chosen, is spoken, [1.] Of Christ, who was chosen and set apart from eternity, by God the Father, to the great work of mediation and redemption. Psal. lxxxix. 19; Isa. xlii. 1; Matt. xii. 18. [2.] Of good angels, whom God chose from the rest to eternal life. 1 Tim. v. 21. [3.] Of the Israelites, who were God's chosen and peculiar people. Deut. vii. 6, 7, 8; Isa. lxv. 9. [4.] Of such as are chosen by God in Christ to eternal life, out of all the nations on the earth. Tit. i. 1. This election is, (1.) An act of distinguishing love. Deut. vii. 8. (2.) Of divine sovereignty, irrespective of any goodness in the objects of it. Rom. ix. 11, 12, 16. (3.) Eternal. Eph. i. 4. 2 Thes. ii. 13. (4.) Absolute and irrevocable. Rom. ix. 11. 2 Tim. ii. 19. (5.) Personal, i. e. of a certain number of persons. Matt. xx. 23. 2 Tim. ii. 19. (6.) Of some of the chief of sinners. 1 Tim. i. 15. (7.) It is in Christ. Eph. i. 4. (8.) It is to sanctification and holiness as the means, and eternal glory as the end. Eph. i. 4. 1 Thes. v. 9.

PREDESTINATE, ED, v. and p. Is God's fore-ordination, purpose, or decree, from all eternity, to bring some of the human race to eternal glory, whilst he leaves others to perish in their infidelity.

Under the word SALVATION, The salvation of God's people is a necessary, (Matt. xiv. 30,) special, (1 Tim. iv. 10,) great, (Heb. ii. 3,) perfect, effectual, and all-sufficient, (Jer. xvii. 14, Heb. vii. 25,) absolute, (Isa. xlv. 17,) and an eternal salvation. Heb. v. 9.

Under the term WORK, the following sentence has been omitted:

"No work of a mere man in this life can be perfect, because man is imperfect; therefore salvation cannot be by works of men, inasmuch as there can be no salvation without a perfect fulfilling of the law of God. Matt. v. 18; Rom. x. 4."

The Editor does not think the above argument conclusive; because it seems to intimate, that if man could perform perfect works, he could claim heaven in consequence. Now the Editor is of a widely different opinion; he thinks that the most perfect works, of the most perfect creature, must, because of their limited and finite nature and value, be absolutely insufficient to purchase that glory, which is unbounded and eternal, and which is gratuitously given to them that believe, through the alone merits of JESUS CHRIST.

PREFACE

FORMER EDITIONS.

CHRISTIAN READER,

THE Holy Scriptures are a revelation from Heaven, a lively impress of the glories of the Divine Majesty; authenticated by the most astonishing miracles, the accomplishment of ancient predictions, and by their energy on the hearts of men, in illuminating, convincing and comforting them, in a way superior to all the powers of nature.

There is nothing relative to the actions, words or thoughts of men, but what falls under their inspection, (Heb. iv. 12;) nor any thing respecting our duty to God or man, but what is included and inculcated in the Sacred Oracles.

To the real believer in Christ, the Word is a joyful sound, (Psal. lxxxix. 15;) good news from a far country, (Prov. xxv. 25;) a word in season, as apples of gold in pictures, or baskets, of silver, (Prov. xxv. 11;) and a fountain of living, refreshing streams to all who thirst for the consolations of God. They are the subject matter of Zion's songs in the house of its pilgrimage; and in the Scriptures are held forth every thing the saint wishes for, or can desire, to make him happy and blessed for ever.

1. They are his storehouse and repository of all supplies. Herein Wisdom hath mingled her wine, and furnished her table. Prov. ix. 2. If we want wisdom and understanding, the Word is a lamp to our feet, and a light to our paths: the entrance thereof into the heart giveth light; it giveth understanding to the simple, (Psal. cxix. 105, 130;) and is able to make us wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus. 2 Tim. iii. 15. If we want pardon to our guilty souls, here is the balm of Gilead: herein the Almighty Redeemer is held forth as a full propitiation for our sins, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life, (John iii. 14, 15, 16;) should receive remission of sin, and its removal from him, as far as the east is from the west. Acts x. 43; Psal. ciii. 12. Do we want support, help, deliverance from enemies and evils without or within? Here is a promise, that strength shall be equal to our day, (Deut. xxxiii. 25;) that the grace of Jesus Christ shall be sufficient for us, (2 Cor. xii. 9;) and that Christ will be with us and a very present help in trouble. Isa. xli. 10; Psal. xlvi. 1. Do we want food for our souls, the bread of life? Here it is promised, He shall feed his flock like a shepherd. Isa. xl. 11. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters. Rev. vii. 17. And God will supply all our need, according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. Phil. iv. 19.

2. The Scriptures are the believer's museum, abounding with the greatest rarities and curiosities to entertain and divert his mind. The narratives of Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Samson, Samuel, David, Daniel, Paul, and other great worthies, recorded in Scripture, are incomparably entertaining and instructive, beyond any thing to be found in human composures. The divine perfections shine brighter in the Word of God, than in all his works of creation. Psal. cxxxviii. 2. The unprecedented march of Israel through the Red Sea, and the great River Jordan, at a time when it overflowed all its banks; the conquest of the Moabites and Midianites, by a thousand men from each tribe, without the loss of one single person; the daily descent of manna from heaven, for forty years, by which more than two millions of persons were richly fed; the fall of the walls of Jericho, at the sound of rams'-horns; Gideon's conquest of a numerous host, with three hundred men, having lamps and pitchers; the standing still of the sun in the midst of heaven, at the word of Joshua; the wondrous achievements of Samson; the preservation of the three worthies in the midst of a fierce burning fiery furnace, &c., are such instances of the amazing power of God, and his concern for, and love to his people, as may justly excite our admiration and praise, and encourage us to trust and confide in a God of such matchless power, and unparalleled goodness and mercy, for all we need. Who can utter the mighty acts of the Lord? Who can shew forth all praise?

He spake—the sun obedient stood,
And held the falling day:
Old Jordan backward drives his flood,
And disappoints the sea.

Dr. Watts.

If we desire to be delighted, instructed, made wise and intelligent, and enriched with things noble, sublime, and invigorating to the heart, let us be incessantly conversant with the Bible.

Men's books with heaps of chaff are stor'd;
God's book doth golden grains afford:
Then leave the chaff, and spend thy pains
In gathering up the golden grains.

Bernard.

3. The Word of God is the believer's sanctuary and hiding-place in a stormy day, as there is something therein suited to every circumstance; and that can, under the influence of the Holy Spirit, give ease and relief under all situations and conditions of life.

4. The Word is compared to a glass, through which all objects may be viewed, both great and minute, both evil and good, of time and eternity, temporal and spiritual. 2 Cor. iii. 18. In this glass, a sinner may see his own features and likeness, what spots are upon him, the lineaments of his soul, and its qualities and dispositions; whether they are such as resemble the God of love, purity, and holiness, or the fallen spirit of pride, infidelity, ignorance and uncleanness. It is like a perspective glass, through which distant objects relating to heaven and hell may be discerned; and it would be of signal advantage to us, to make frequent use of it in these respects. It is as a microscopic glass, wherein those sins which some think to be diminutive and small, appear to be high crimes committed against an infinite God; for, as there is no little God, consequently no sin committed against God can be little, though there are degrees of guilt attending sinful actions.

Nor does the Word only concern Christians, that is, believers in Christ, but it has also to do with the ungodly and profane; it points out their state, remonstrates against their conduct, and invites them to listen to its dictates, and partake of its blessings. Prov. i. 22, 23. ix. 5. It is a word behind them, saying, This is the way; walk ye in it.

Listen, O sinner, to the voice,
And holy angels will rejoice
To see a soul redeem'd from death,
And brought to live on Christ by faith.

God absolutely declares, and positively asserts in his Word, that sinners must be converted, and have their hearts changed and renewed by his Holy Spirit, or be finally miserable; must repent of their sins, and turn to God through Jesus Christ, by a faith of his operation, or perish in their sins.

Digitized by Google

Hence, he calls to sinners, Turn ye, turn ye; why will ye die? Ezek. xxxiii. 11. It is the standing, righteous law of Heaven, that you must turn or die; and why will ye stand it out against God, to your own ruin? Why will ye die? Perhaps some will say, "We cannot turn ourselves." May you then cry to God, with Ephraim, Turn thou me, and I shall be turned. Jer. xxxi. 18. The Word says, Ask, and ye shall receive. Matt. vii. 7. It is an instance of amazing condescension in God, that he will take any notice of you, will reason with you, and lay the case before you. He might have kept eternal silence respecting you, and not afforded you such means of instruction, nor a revelation of these things in his Word. When a man has received some great affront and injury from another, he commonly seeks to be revenged, or passes by the offender in sullen silence: if God had acted thus, we should have been eternally ruined. But O the kindness, the compassion and forbearance of a God towards those who have offered him the highest affronts and greatest indignities! and have said in their hearts and actions, We have no part in Jesus Christ, nor inheritance in the Son of God. And yet the Lord seeks to be gracious, and hath explicitly made known in his Word the way of escape, peace and safety.

Some will allow the necessity of repentance to the carnally profane, but imagine it needless to the morally honest. O, sirs! this is a dangerous and ruinous sentiment, invented by Satan to quiet the conscience, and lull it to sleep in carnal security. Our Lord urged the necessity of being born again unto Nicodemus, a master in Israel, (John iii. 3, 7,) and assures us, that except our righteousness shall exceed that of the Scribes and Pharisees, we shall in no case enter the kingdom of heaven. Matt. v. 20. Every man by nature has a sinful, corrupted heart, which alienates him from God, and attaches him to things worldly and sinful, (Rom. viii. 7,) and, without a new heart and nature, he can never love God, nor enjoy a union of heart to him.

Search the Scriptures, and pray to God for an understanding of them, that you may escape every pernicious snare and evil, and be led to place your hopes and happiness in Jesus Christ, and his precious Word. You have the means afforded of knowing the Word of God; and of all books which have been wrote by men, in order to enlighten and instruct the mind in the knowledge of the Scriptures, there are none more calculated to this end than a good Concordance and Dictionary of the Bible. The consideration hereof encouraged me to begin and go through this laborious work; and I have used my utmost endeavour to make it as full and complete as I could in so small a volume.

Having had many years' experience of the utility and advantage of such a work, I have often wished that the use hereof might be more general, and that every family, especially every godly family, might have a Concordance and Dictionary, as well as the Bible, in their houses: and, observing that all the small ones which have been published are so very deficient, as generally to disappoint the inquirer after a Scripture text; and the larger ones too expensive to be obtained by many families; and, if obtained, yet do not give the sense of Scripture words, which are many of them needful to be known. I had therefore an inclination to compile a Concordance and Dictionary, in one octavo volume, chiefly containing what is needful in Cruden's Concordance, and Wilson's Christian Dictionary; which are two of the completest books of the kind that I have seen. The one is a large quarto, and the other a folio volume.

No person before has wrote a book upon my plan. Mr. Cruden has, indeed, judiciously given the different acceptations of many words, and has inserted a table of proper names at the end of his Concordance; but it is deficient, many words being left out: notwithstanding, it is a book of great merit, which I have made more use of than any other, in compiling the Concordance part of mine.

In order to contract this volume into a narrow compass, so as to make it portable to those who travel, and more convenient for common use, I have,

1. Inserted in the same line with the leading word sought for, either its signification, or a Scripture citation, by which I have saved many thousand lines.

Digitized by Google

2. I have inserted two quotations in one line, when it could be conveniently done, which has much contracted the work.

3. I have left out the concordance of many little words, which are seldom looked for to find a text by, as it may be found under other words; such as if, is, it, that, thee, them, then, was, we, &c.; though, for the sake of those who make it their business to study the Bible, and wish to know the different senses in which a word is used, I have inserted many words, which might otherwise have been left out.

In this work I have not given the history of the lives and characters of eminent persons recorded in Scripture, because their history is already given, and their characters drawn by the pen of inspiration; to which little can be added but conjecture and uncertainty; and my design was only to include what I judged most needful.

The signification of words I have carefully transcribed from eminent writers, of known skill in the learned languages; chiefly from Wilson's Christian Dictionary, the authors of which have been very indefatigable in searching out the etymology of Scripture words.

In this edition I have inserted a concordance of proper names, and also many Scripture words, which were left out in the first edition. If any Scripture word is omitted, it has escaped my notice.

After all, it ought to be considered, that a man's hand is in it, and a feeble one too, from which nothing perfect can be expected. I have done what I could, and believe the Lord has favoured me with his direction and assistance herein; which if he condescends to crown with his blessing, for the benefit of those who love his Word, to him will belong all the glory.

And now, Christian reader, I commend thee to God, and to the Word of his grace, which is able to build thee up, and to give thee an inheritance among all them which are sanctified; which, that it may be thy happiness to experience, is the sincere desire of thy unworthy servant in the Gospel of CHRIST,

J. B.

THOSE PERSONS WHO ARE UNACQUAINTED WITH THE NATURE OF CONCORDANCES, MAY OBSERVE THE FOLLOWING

DIRECTIONS.

1. That the word looked for is inserted only at full length at the head of the class: in every following line, the first letter is put for the word; as, A. is put for AARON, c. for COMMAND, &c.; and if there are two words at the head of the class, a short ellipsis, or blank line, is put before or after the initial letter, for the word; as, for ABODE there, is put a.-, or there ABODE, -a.

2. Where two distinct quotations are in one line, they are by this mark (‖) divided; but those texts which follow a quotation, and where the above mark is not inserted, are to be considered as synonymous or parallel passages. This mark (|) is to separate one chapter and verse from another.

3. The marginal reading, which is of considerable use, is distinguished by an obelisk (†).

4. The parts of speech are in general marked, s. for substantive, v. for verb, a. for adjective, p. for participle, ad. for adverb, c. for conjunction, pr. for preposition, and i. for interjection. As proper names are all substantives, they are not marked.

BABYLON, Confusion, or mixture. The capital of Chaldea. "A famous city, built four-square, 60 miles in circumference, 15 on each side. The walls were 87 feet thick, and 350 high, on which were built 316 towers, or, according to others, 250, three between each gate, and seven at each corner. The gates were 100, 25 on each side, and all of them of solid brass. From these ran 25 streets, crossing one another at right angles, each 150 feet wide, and 15 miles in length. A row of houses faced the wall on every side, with a street of 200 feet wide between them and it. Thus the whole city was divided into 625 squares, each of which was 4 furlongs and a half on every side. All round these squares stood the houses, fronting the streets, and the empty space within served for gardens and other needful uses." On this plan the city of Philadelphia, in North America, was built.

CHRIST, The anointed of God; the same with the Hebrew Messiah, Psal. 45:7. Isa. 61:1. In his divine nature he is equal with the Father, and over all, God blessed for ever; but in his human nature, subordinate and inferior to the Father, being like to men in all things, sin excepted. Both natures are united in the person of Christ, that he might be our prophet, priest, and king, and the author of a complete, perfect, all-sufficient, and eternal salvation.
In Christ all the types, prophecies, and promises centre. He is the most suitable object for the sinner to look to, trust in, and expect all his joys and consolations from, as alone by him life and salvation are procured. They bill in what is called their courtship: the male and female sit, and feed their young by turns: they cast provision out of their crop into the mouth of their young; they drink not by sipping like other birds, but by continual draughts like Quadrupeds. The Turtle-dove is a native of India, but is found in different parts of England, in the breeding season. They migrate at the approach of winter, and are extremely shy. Many fabulous stories have been told of these creatures.

EAGLE, s. Is a bird of prey, the king of birds, frequently mentioned in Scripture. It is declared unclean, Lev. 11:13. as are all other birds of its species; as the Sea-eagle, and the Eagle called Ossifrage, because it breaks the bones in order to extract the marrow. The hawk and vulture may also be reckoned as different species of eagles.

It is of great courage, so as to set on harts and great beasts. It flies very high, Prov. 30:19. yet in the twinkling of an eye seizes on its prey, whether on the earth, or in the sea. It builds its nest very high in the tops of rocks, Job 39:27. It goes forth to prey about noon, when men are gone home out of the fields.

It has a little eye, but a very quick sight, and discerns its prey afar off, and beholds the sun with open eyes. Such of her young as through weakness of sight cannot behold the sun, it rejects as unnatural. It lives long, nor dies of age or sickness (say some) but of hunger; for by age its bill grows so hooked that it cannot feed. It preys not on small birds, but on geese, hares, harts, serpents, and dead carcases. To provoke its young ones to fly, it flutters over them, and takes them on its wings, Deut. 32:11. Isa. 40:31. The Eagle moults and loses its feathers yearly, at which seasons it is very feeble, so as neither to hunt its prey, nor create terror in other birds as usual; but soon renews its native vigour again, Psal. 103:5.

The second was called* Cherem, that is, Anathema ; this was an aggravation of the first ; it excluded a man from the synagogue, and deprived him of all civil commerce. It was a most dreadful and shocking one, published by sound of four hundred trumpets, and removed all hope of returning to the synagogue.

Again, faith is said to be either, [1] Historical, that is, a belief of the truth of divine revelation, and the doctrines it contains, Acts 8:13. Jam. 2:17,19. Or [2] The faith of miracles. The faith of believing and performing miracles, which persons may have, and be destitute of grace, 1 Cor. 13:2. Or [3] The faith of God's elect. Tit. 1:1. that which is peculiar to the followers of God, Eph. 2:8. with which salvation is connected, Mark 16:16. that works by love, Gal. 5:6. and purifies the heart. Acts 15:9. This faith consists, not only in the belief of the gospel revelation, of redemption and salvation by Christ alone, but also in a sole trust in, and dependence on Christ, and the word of his grace, for eternal life, Isa. 26:4. This grace, though alike precious in all the saints, in respect to the nature and kind of it, is yet different in regard to the degrees of it: In some of the saints it is weak and interrupted with doubtings, Matt. 6:30. in others it is strong, growing up to assurance, Matt. 8:10. Rom. 4:20.

We are said to be justified by faith, Rom. 5:1. by which is not meant, that faith is the meritorious cause of our justification, that being the obedience and death of Christ, Rom. 10:4. and considered as a distinct thing from faith, being unto and upon all them that believe, Rom. 3:22. But that by faith we look to, lay hold of, and apprehend our justification, and come to the knowledge and enjoyment of it.
